Read the story. Answer the questions on the next page.

Once upon a time, in a small village nestled among rolling hills and lush green fields, there lived a lively boy named Max. Max was known throughout the village for his insatiable curiosity and his knack for finding adventure in the most unexpected places.

One sunny morning, while Max was exploring in the woods near his home, he found an ancient map on the forest floor. The map was adorned with strange symbols and marked with a path leading deep into the heart of the forest.

Max followed the map which led him to a magical marble, hidden beneath a marble's magical help, he defeated Malachi and banished him from the village forever.

Realizing the marble's dangerous allure, Max made a tough decision. He would return it to the woods where it could no longer harm anyone. He said his farewells to the marble, leaving it in the hollow of the tall oak tree.

As Max walked away from the forest, he couldn't help but smile. He had learned that true magic didn't come from a marble; it came from the kindness and bravery within one's heart.
