

Name _____ Class _____ Date _____

1 Plot means to plan. You need to plan how your story will develop.

2 A setting is a place. When you need to know the setting of a story, look for where it takes place.

- A true
- B false

3 A character is a person or animal. When you need to find the characters in a

4 A purpose is a reason for doing something. An author writes with a purpose

PREVIEW

Please Sign In or Sign Up to download the printable version of this worksheet

7 _____ seems to be telling the story. _____ could be the _____ of a story.

- A teacher
- B narrator
- C character
- D plot

- A plot
- B setting
- C author
- D narrator

9 Sara was having a birthday party. She had invited five friends to the park for a picnic and a swim. They played on the park playground, swam, and then had cake. It was a great party.

What is the setting of this story?

- A Sara's birthday
- B five friends
- C the park
- D cake

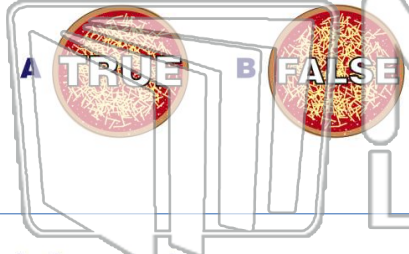

10 Jim was making people laugh. He made funny noises and faces at everyone. He was pretending to be his teacher. He did not know she was standing behind him. All his classmates quickly stopped laughing. Why?

- A He really wasn't funny.
- B They could see the teacher.
- C The teacher told them to stop.
- D Jim started to cry.

Name _____ Class _____ Date _____

1 Plot means to plan. You need to plan how your story will develop.

2 A setting is a place. When you need to know the setting of a story, look for where it takes place.

- A true
- B false

3 A character is a person or animal. When you need to find the characters in a

4 A purpose is a reason for doing something. An author writes with a purpose

5

PREVIEW

Please Sign In or Sign Up to download the printable version of this worksheet

7 _____ seems to be telling the story.

- A teacher
- B narrator
- C character
- D plot

_____ could be the _____ of a story.

- A plot
- B setting
- C author
- D narrator

9 Sara was having a birthday party. She had invited five friends to the park for a picnic and a swim. They played on the park playground, swam, and then had cake. It was a great party.

What is the setting of this story?

- A Sara's birthday
- B five friends
- C the park
- D cake

10 Jim was making people laugh. He made funny noises and faces at everyone. He was pretending to be his teacher. He did not know she was standing behind him. All his classmates quickly stopped laughing. Why?

- A He really wasn't funny.
- B They could see the teacher.
- C The teacher told them to stop.
- D Jim started to cry.