

Name _____ Class _____ Date _____

1 When you are stating a fact that is in the text, you are making inferences.

2 Using clues from a story and information you already know, you make _____.

- A facts
- B inferences
- C flashbacks
- D causes and effects

NEW PATH LEARNING

3 Making inferences is often called "reading between the lines."

4 When you go to a birthday party, you can infer that:

5

PREVIEW

Please Sign In or Sign Up to download the printable version of this worksheet

7 and the waves became choppy. "We will try again another day," said his father.

The reader can infer that:

- A George did not want to go fishing.
- B Dad forgot the bait.
- C bad weather caused them to cancel their trip.
- D the boat was not working properly.

a lot. At night everyone in the family was able to get plenty of sleep.

The reader can infer that:

- A the baby liked to laugh.
- B the baby didn't cry much.
- C the baby was fun to play with.
- D everyone took turns rocking the baby.

9 If a character is yelling, the reader can infer that she is angry.

- A true
- B false

10 Robert worked hard on his Julius Caesar report. He used many resources, edited it several times, and included maps and drawings. He was delighted that his teacher recognized the effort he made.

The reader can infer that:

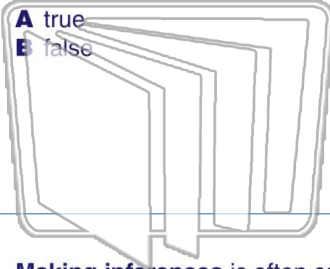

- A Robert's report was incomplete.
- B Robert was glad when he finished.
- C Robert received a good grade.
- D Robert's report was about Rome.

Name _____ Class _____ Date _____

1 When you are stating a fact that is in the text, you are making inferences.

- A true
- B false

2 Using clues from a story and information you already know, you make _____.

- A facts
- B inferences
- C flashbacks
- D causes and effects

3 Making inferences is often called "reading between the lines."

4 When you go to a birthday party, you can infer that:

PREVIEW

Please Sign In or Sign Up to download the printable version of this worksheet

7 and the waves became choppy. "We will try again another day," said his father.

The reader can infer that:

- A George did not want to go fishing.
- B Dad forgot the bait.
- C bad weather caused them to cancel their trip.
- D the boat was not working properly.

a lot. At night everyone in the family was able to get plenty of sleep.

The reader can infer that:

- A the baby liked to laugh.
- B the baby didn't cry much.
- C the baby was fun to play with.
- D everyone took turns rocking the baby.

9 If a character is yelling, the reader can infer that she is angry.

- A true
- B false

10 Robert worked hard on his Julius Caesar report. He used many resources, edited it several times, and included maps and drawings. He was delighted that his teacher recognized the effort he made.

The reader can infer that:

- A Robert's report was incomplete.
- B Robert was glad when he finished.
- C Robert received a good grade.
- D Robert's report was about Rome.

